Lesson 1: YT1000 Course Introduction

New & Improved with 2x More:
Shameless self promos
Walls of text
Amateur paintings
History

YT1000 Intro to Yettaiyan Culture & Civilization

Course Objectives

- Give disciples a broad understanding of Yettaiyan history, culture, and cultivation tradition
- Prepare disciples for the rigor of later modules :)
- Reduce incidence of catastrophic spiritual wars and natural disasters
- Sell cultivation manuals ➡️

About the Course

Welcome to YT1000 Introduction to Yettaiyan Culture & Civilization! This is a foundational module which aims to give disciples historical and cultural context for the techniques they'll learn at the Sect of Sea & Flame.

Meet Your Instructor

YT1000 is taught by Master Orange/Juzi (me), the thousand-year-old fruit of a heavenly tree! I collect stories and histories from the mortal world so I can please the bookworm higher-ups in the heavenly court.

Yettaiya,

Land of Sea & Flame

LAND OF SEA & FLAME

13th year in the reign of Faerin's last emperor

This continent (Yettaiya) is a modern concept.

For much of history, the peoples who inhabited the Land of Sea & Flame did not think of themselves as “Yettaiyans”, for what we think of as “Yettaiya” was the extent of their known world.

The Buronayi

“Buronayi” refers to different socio-cultural entities depending on context:

The blood descendants of Buro and Nayi, the phoenix and dragon races

The ethnic Nayimans and Buromans (inclusive of humans) united by a shared mythology but divided by language and socio-cultural values

At their height, the ethnic Buronayi comprised of the entire Yettaiyan population.

~70-80%

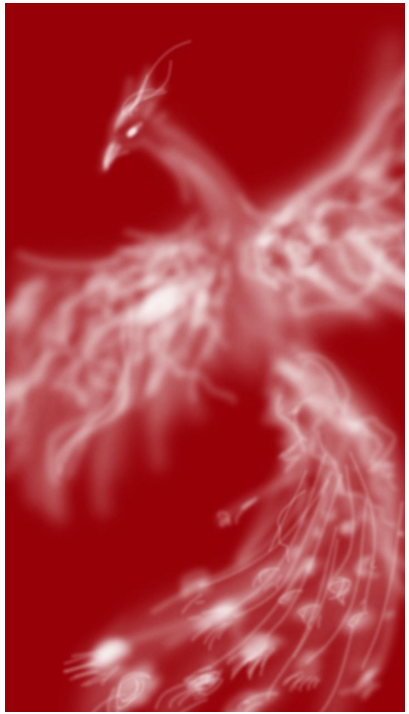
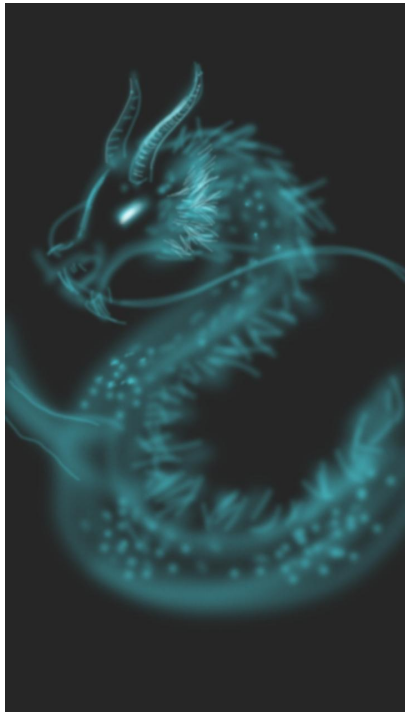
In Buronayi mythology, the world was created as a result of a great war between two celestial beings.

Buro, phoenix goddess of fire, light, heat





Nayi, dragon god of water, darkness, cold

Dragons and phoenixes lived among humans and eventually came to rule two distinct cultures and eventually, political states

Burorin, the Phoenix Empire

Phoenix ruling class

Nayirin, the Dragon Empire

Dragon ruling class

Buromans

Trace heritage to Burorin

Venerate fire, light, warmth

Powerful (but unpredictable) cultivation technique

Nayimans

Trace heritage to Nayirin

Venerate water, darkness, cold

Controlled cultivation

Perhaps unsurprisingly, the Nayimans and Buromans often have an adversarial relationship

Imperial Faerin

Why should we care about Faerin?

Golden age in Buronayi history

One of the largest (land area and population) and longest-lived Yettaiyan states

Cultivation technique

Birth of Faerin

Nayirin enforced a rigid hierarchy based on bloodline

Angry humans & “lesser” dragons

Violent overthrow by founders of Faerin

Key Features

Culturally Nayiman state

Ideal of “harmony” between “the three races”

First Yettaiyan empire with human ruling house

Despite its purported ideals, Faerinian society remained deeply divided along political and cultural lines. These divides were exacerbated by Faerin’s conquest of Burorin. The ensuing social tensions never fully abated.

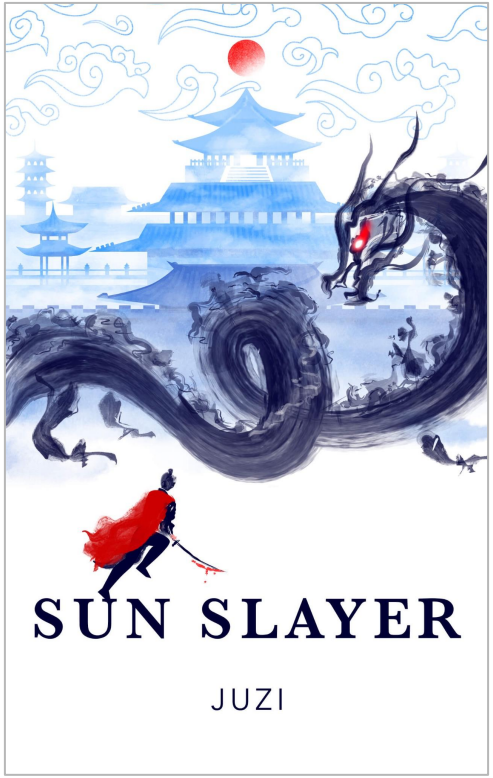
Required Reading: Sun Slayer

Attributed to Hwoyi (sometimes Hwona), Faerinian imperial painter who later served other courts during the late Age of Empire

One of the only surviving historical accounts by a Faerinian who lived in Faerin's capital during the reign of its last emperor

Few Faerinian sources from the same period -> difficult to determine which events were real/fictitious

Cornerstone in Buronayi history and folklore



https://www.amazon.com/dp/B0DDKPHRK7